

Glossary:Country codes

Statistics Explained

Member States of the European Union \(EU\) and other countries have been assigned a two-letter country code , always written in capital letters, and often used as an abbreviation in statistical analyses, tables, figures or maps.

The protocol order in which countries are often listed is based on the alphabetical list of countries in their national language for EU and EFTA Member States and for candidate countries ; for potential candidates , it is based on the alphabetical order of their country code.

EU Member States come first, followed by European Free Trade Association \(EFTA\) Member States, candidate countries for EU membership, potential candidates and, finally, other countries. The order in the tables below is first column down, then second column down, etc..

European Union (EU)

European Free Trade Association (EFTA)

EU candidate countries

Potential candidates

*(*) This designation is without prejudice to positions on status, and is in line with UNSCR 1244/1999 and the ICJ Opinion on the Kosovo declaration of independence. (with asterisk and footnote in written documents, only the first time that Kosovo is mentioned).*
